Poolside, Victoria Annexe

▶ 1/13

EASTERN COMFORT

Only a handful of Sarkies properties stand today as illustrious hotels they once were. Few are aware that their firstborn was erected in Penang in 1885 and is known today as the Eastern and Oriental Hotel.

A luxurious seafront Sarkies confection, the E&O exudes enough history and grandeur to set itself up as the premier address for well heeled visitors eager to soak up the colonial milieu within the UNESCO Heritage precincts of Georgetown. There are now two buildings, the heritage wing which is the restored relic as well as the Victoria Annexe, stupendously new, bright and airy.

Several old habits survived with the building into today's operations. The afternoon tea at 1885 is a popular homage to the English delight for scones and dainties while Farquhar's Bar caters to the gentleman's penchant for salon socialising. Newly installed Panpuri Spa is new frosting on old cake with the most indulgent massage rituals.

Whereas we can expect the original entity to be stuffy and pompous, the E&O at present is capably managed and scores with a distinct warmth and friendliness that can best be described as Malaysia Boleh.
