What we enjoyed about this Kampung Ramadan buffet is that the action stalls such as Pak Lah Pasembur, charcoal roasted whole lamb, murtabak and Roti John are congregated at the alfresco area of the restaurant, rendering less smoke in the interior of the restaurant and free up more space at the same time.

Their charcoal roasted lamb is definitely something everyone ought to go for.

Meanwhile, the spread of buffet line is so immense that made me fall into a conundrum where to start from. Almost every dish in the buffet line seems so appetizing and irresistible, such as salmon fish head curry in claypot, sushi and sashimi, chilled and poached crustaceans that include oysters, slipper lobsters, scallops, prawns, green mussels and more, various grilled seafood and proteins and hot counter dishes.

One must also try out their Wok Fried Penang Char Koay Teow which is infused with aroma, or you may go for Mee Goreng Mamak or Singapore Fried Bee Hoon.

Dessert counter also offer a wide variety of local and international inspired sweet ends.
